

Rainbows do it . . .

cial fourth down situations five times, choking off Husky scoring threats on three of those occasions inside its own 10 — in hero's play.

Especially tackle Levi Stanley, who was credited with 11 tackles and assists on five others, and cornerback Harold Stringer, who intercepted three Washington passes, the last one in the final 3:17 of play to deny the Huskies possession of the football when they needed it the most and never got it again.

But don't forget there were other offensive standouts. Linebacker Ramsey Simmons (six tackles, five assists) and backer Charlie Sutton (eight tackles, one assist), safety Johnny Duckworth (seven tackles, two assists), linebacker Dexter Games (six tackles, five assists), cornerback Jerry White (five tackles, two assists) and hard-hitting line backer Danny Miller, who had the same number as White way back there in the second quarter when he was forced to leave the game with an injury.

AND GIVE that Rainbow offense credit, too, for coming through when the chips were down. Although the offense lost four of eight fumbles and had a couple of passes intercepted and bobbed away in the early going, it controlled the football when it needed to the most in the final minutes of play.

Tom Houghs to quarterback Casey Orter, the Rainbows' only consistent quarterback who threw the winning touchdown pass, and to wide receiver Allen Brown who caught it in the third quarter, at Rainwood Stadium, the Austrorborn, California-raised soccer-style kicker who booted a 27-yard field goal in the first quarter for the margin of victory.

Also to tailback Albert Holmes, who carried 20 times for 115 yards, and to little Tai Ala, the squat Rainbows cornerback, who carried 11 times for 70 yards, much of that in the Rainbows offense came alive long enough to control the football and run out the clock. It was ditty for Aaron Ahu of Hilo and USC transfer Regis Grace, who set clutch punts when the Huskies held on to the football for the final 3:37 of play.

THE RAINBOWS' winning touchdown drive started at Hawaii's 25 — after that inspired UH defense held on fourth and three at its own 28. Five minutes later — after a 25-yard run by Holmes — Green issued a perfect pass into the arms of Brown who caught it at the goal line over cornerback Pedro Vasquez.

Stringer's field goal came in the first quarter, after Washington had taken a 7-0 lead at 9:12 on a one-yard burst by fullback Pete Takagawa, when a Rainbow march stalled.

The march started at the seven-yard line. A Husky punt A 41-yard pass play from Orter to Brown and Hawaii in business at the Washington 18. But the drive was eventually halted at the line. Kicking the ball from the 17, Stringer kicked in a 27-yard field goal to make it 7-3, which is the way things stood at the point after touchdown.

Hawaii, he also booted a field goal in the 17 passes, one for the fourth and 15 yards, and had two picked off.

Denise Fitzpatrick, who took over at quarterback for the Huskies when starter James Anderson was injured, completed eight of 12 passes for 119 yards. Glen Bonner was the top ground gainer for the Huskies with 70 yards on 15 assignments.

PHIOR TO the game, the Rainbow dressing room was extremely quiet. You could have almost heard a pin drop. Even Dave Holmes noticed the quiet. "I just love," he said, "the atmosphere in the locker room in football and not a bunch of other sports."

The Rainbows did not play the "mistake-free" football Holmes had hoped for. They made their share of mistakes. But so did the Huskies. And that's what the Rainbows counted on.

during the week. I don't think that was the case.

Tackle Levi Stanley, who spearheaded the fourth down drive which held on crucial fourth down situations five times including the one in its own backyard when the offense was spotted back to work again.

"We just kept telling each other we had to work hard," said Stanley of Wainaina. "The offense couldn't get untracked for a while and we were back in there down close several times. We looked at it like we were about to be shoved off a cliff and that we couldn't let it happen. We proved who was king of the mountain."

Quarterback Casey Orter, who threw the winning touchdown pass to wide receiver Allen Brown in the third quarter, and two other Rainbows touchdowns, was just a case of opening game jitters.

"THIS IS the first time we've played together in front of people," said the SMU transfer. "And it's the first time we've played together under fire. It's the best test we could have had, playing in front of more than 50,000 people."

Washington cornerback Denny Fitzpatrick tried to look at the brighter side.

"It could be good for us in the long run," he said.

the ball floating into the waiting arms of Allen Brown (No. 80) for the score.

Chuck knows a few swear words but he showed admirable restraint. What happened was that he was watching a little monitor that just didn't seem to have enough screen to cover the field for the winning play.

"What game is he watching?" someone growled. "He doesn't seem to have very good depth perception."

They just didn't understand the intricacies of covering the football game on TV and the problems faced in watching both the field and a monitor at the same time.

Russell's wife gains divorce
SUSTON (UPI) — The wife of Bill Russell, former Boston Celtics basketball superstar and now coach of the Seattle SuperSonics, was granted a divorce Friday in Middlesex Superior Court.

Mrs. Rose K. Russell, 27, said she will receive $800 per month support for herself and their three children, William F. Jr., 15; Jacob H. 14, and Karen K. 11.

Mrs. Russell said she last lived with her husband in April 1969. Mrs. Russell charged him with "cruel and abusive treatment."

Holmes greatest team?

Just about everybody who owns a TV set on Kauai was tuned into the game. Gus Gualander, the hotel impresario, even gave up his afternoon nap to watch Casey Orter, Al Holmes, Allen Brown, Tai Ala, on offense, and the likes of Simmons, Alb, Dexter Games and some of the rest strut their stuff on defense.

And then there was Harold Stringer, the speedy defensive back who seemed to be all over the field breaking up plays.

There's no doubt that University of Washington isn't as powerful this year as usual, what with all those sophomores in the lineup. But it now appears that coach Dave Holmes has the makings of his greatest team at the Manoa campus.

Already there's talk about going through the season unbeaten. After you win the first one, there's always that chance, of course.

But with such powers as Utah, University of Pacific and University of Nevada-Las Vegas, there could be a stumbling block unless our lads continue to improve.

Meanwhile, the sweet taste of victory over a major league foe has made the Rainbows and the coaching staff island heroes, at least for a day.

Ryder site
LONDON (UPI) — William Clarke, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, announced that the Ryder Cup match between the United States and Britain will be played at the Laurel Valley Country Club.
